WASHINGTON — The chairman of the House intelligence committee on Monday sent an urgent email to Senate intelligence committee members warning that a criminal referral for Gen. Mike Flynn had been made to the Justice Department. “[W]e are receiving significant information from credible sources that you are being briefed on new and disturbing information about the possibility that [National Security Adviser] Flynn and others may have misled the FBI in the environment now described as ‘Russian collusion,’” Chairman Devin Nunes wrote in the email, dated Monday. A source close to the committee tells RealClearInvestigations that the source of the information came from a “former high-ranking government official.” The committee also held a closed-door hearing on Monday, at which a retired U.S. military officer reportedly offered new information on how Russia obtained classified information about U.S. underwater programs. The source declined to discuss the claim publicly. Peter Vincent Pry, a former senior defense and intelligence official, told the committee that Russia’s large investment in the country and its efforts to influence U.S. society through subversion and disinformation campaigns “has not gone unnoticed in this country” and threatens “the security and wellbeing of not only the United States, but of the entire free world.” Read Nunes’ entire memo Senators on the intelligence committee were not given that information and have yet to receive the intelligence community’s detailed assessment, including the source of Pry’s information. An hour before the memo was sent, at least one member of the Senate committee, Sen. Angus King (I-Maine), spoke on the Senate floor and said he had not been provided with that detail. “I know that what I’m being asked to see is classified and there’s a reason for that, but there was no reason given for me to go to the extreme of saying that I’m not going to read the whole thing,” King said. “The fact that I even had to say that, it’s a mystery to me.” Nunes wrote in his memo that he hoped the Senate committee could make a determination before the committees share any classified information. And he asked what the committee has learned that other committees in Congress are not privy to. “Your operation,” Nunes wrote, “is extremely valuable to the President, the nation

What’s New in the?

Stephen King is returning to literature. The epic horror writer’s new novel will be published by G.P. Putnam’s Sons on August 17th. Titled Mr. Mercedes, the book is currently available for pre-order on Amazon. In the book, King re-imagines a time-traveler and a little girl in 1950s America, thanks to a catastrophic car accident that kills the traffic cop who stops Mr. Mercedes. The accident causes the fate of a little girl named Helen in the future to be changed, so that she will be murdered by the titular psychopath. The novel was announced on June 24th, but the details were vague. Now, the author has released a full synopsis of Mr. Mercedes. The text follows below. Mr. Mercedes is the story of a retired cop named Oscar (a.k.a. Death) Ben whose wife, Dr. Helen, and a little girl named Helen die in a car accident. As Death drifts through time, revisiting the accident, he notices a ticking time bomb that will destroy the world unless he can intervene. Eventually he takes a hostage, a young girl named Grace (a.k.a. Baby), and hides her in a protected place, using her to stop the bomb. But the powers that be—including a police chief who never knew Helen—don’t want to hear about the problem, and pretty soon the town is changed and an innocent child is the object of murderous intent. It all ends with some great shoe-shopping and a lot of extraordinarily bad luck for a guy named Stephen King. The book was originally going to be published by Scribner in August 2013, but the publishing company passed. Amazon, another major publisher, purchased the book, and it will be published by G.P. Putnam’s Sons. “I’ve been holding out on you, my dear,” he says, “trying to save something for the last shot.” —Mr. Mercedes G.P. Putnam’s Sons publishing(It’s at this point in the story that you begin picturing Tara Reade wearing a grey overcoat, and the man behind the wheel of the truck driving slowly, admiring her legs.) (Patty, after another long pause where she’s just been staring and mouthing “NOOOOOOO,” speaks in a voice I can only describe as “incredulous horror”)
